Your own public library, from a single prompt

Building a digital library today takes developers, servers and months of work. With World Biblio Tech, you describe the library you dream of in a sentence and get a working, searchable library of public-domain books, already classified by A-I-Classify and kept permanently on the public storage.

- ☐ Describe it, get it: say what you want, and the layout and design follow.
- ☐ Full shelves from day one: books arrive already classified and searchable.
- ☐ Pay once: a single payment builds it, with no subscription, developer or servers.

What problem are we solving?

01

A reading library of their own for Community Groups & Schools

A library made for their readers, launched without a single developer.

02

Study collections on demand for Digital Humanities Researchers

The exact set of books their study needs, ready to search, with no tools to build.

03

Online exhibitions for Heritage & Cultural Institutions

A themed collection published online, without hiring a web team.

04

A branded reading site for Independent Publishers & Open Archives

Their public-domain catalogue on a site of their own, in minutes, not months.

Knowledge belongs to communities, not corporations.
